Supercharging

In case of supercharging, the nominal cylinder-capacity will be multiplied by 1.7 for petrol engines and by 1.5 for the diesel engine, and the car will pass into the class corresponding to the fictive volume thus obtained.

The car will be treated in all respects as if its cylinder-capacity thus increased were its real capacity.

This shall particularly be the case for assigning the car to its cylinder-capacity class, its interior dimensions, its minimum number of places, its minimum weight, etc.
